

HIT OWN POCKETS TO SPITE RAILWAY

If the increased rates of car fares to Charleston, Va., as asked by the Washington and Virginia railway, go into effect, citizens of the Virginia suburbs declare they will not take advantage of the commuters' rates offered to the disadvantage of their visitors and friends, who will have to pay a 50-cent fare to reach the town.

The railway company has petitioned the Interstate Commerce Commission for a raise in rates which would double the present tariff. A flat rate of 18 cents from the city to Charleston is on the bill, but the offer of a commuter's book of fifty-two fares for $4.57, which puts the commuter's fare at a lower rate than at present, was offered residents for themselves.

The Charleston Citizens' Association, through its attorney, yesterday filed a petition with the I. C. C. against the railroad's application. Charlestonites say that if the rates go through they will pay the same as their friends and expect that visitors who will be charged the advanced rate.

SEEK TO ABOLISH HOUSING BUREAU

Another move to abolish the United States Housing Corporation and get an end to its activities has been started by the House Public Buildings and Grounds Committee.

A committee of five was named yesterday to confer with Majority Leader McCall with a view to getting action on a resolution by Congressman Frank Clark of Florida which would accomplish this end.

Numerous resolutions have been introduced in the House looking to the investigation and abolition of the housing corporation but no action has been taken on them.

The latest attack on the bureau started last week when members of the House received from the bureau a hand-drawn printed report of the work of the bureau. It was stated that the report cost $10,000 to publish. Members of the House declared on the floor that that represented one of the evidences of "outrageous extravagance" of the bureau.

The housing corporation has about twenty-five buildings under construction. Under the proposed plan, these would be completed, but all other activities of the corporation would cease.

GIRL SAYS SHE WAS TWELVE WHEN WED; SEEKS DIVORCE

Claiming that she was only twelve years old when she married Samuel Bass Fox at Earl's, S. C., in 1916, Mrs. Lucy Fox, through her sister, Elizabeth Evers, yesterday filed suit in the District Supreme Court against her husband for a limited divorce, alleging desertion and non-support.

Mrs. Fox, represented by Attorney Paul L. Wright, says she was too young to understand the solemn obligations of matrimony when she married.

ARTHUR P. GORMAN DIES IN HOSPITAL

Maryland Tax Commissioner
Succumbs to Diabetes
After Relapse.

ARTHUR P. GORMAN.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 4.—Chairman Arthur P. Gorman, of the State Tax Commission, only son of the late United States Senator Gorman, and himself a power in Democratic party affairs for years, died shortly after 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon at Johns Hopkins Hospital, which he entered the latter part of last week. He had been ill from diabetes for a long time, and was very weak, but until 10 o'clock yesterday morning his physician, Dr. Thomas M. Fletcher, did not expect his death. He lapsed into unconsciousness about 11 o'clock.

With him when the end came were his wife, his sister, Mrs. Ralph W. Hills, of Washington, and Charles C. Wallace, secretary of the State Tax Commission, long Mr. Gorman's confidential man and friend. Mrs. Gorman had been summoned to the hospital when her husband began sinking during the morning. She reached his bedside before he lost consciousness and remained there until the end. She and Mrs. Hills, then went to the old Gorman home, Fairview, near Laurel, which Mr. Gorman inherited from his father. He was a brother of Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert of this city.

Body Taken to Fairview.
The body was removed from the hospital yesterday and was taken to Fairview. Mr. Wallace said that arrangements for the funeral had not been completed, but that he thought it would take place Friday or Saturday. Burial will be in Oak Hill Cemetery, Washington, in the Gorman lot. The body of Mr. Gorman will rest beside that of his father, to whom he was deeply devoted.

He is survived by his widow, who was Miss Grace Norris, daughter of James L. Norris, a prominent Washingtonian, and by his sisters, Mrs. Hills, Mrs. Richard A. Johnson, Mrs. Wilton J. Lambert, Mrs. Stephen W. Gemberell, and Mrs. Charles Magnus. Mr. Gorman was born at the family place in Howard county on March 27, 1873, so he was forty-six years of age. He attended the public schools and later studied under private tutors. Afterward he attended the Episcopal High School in Alexandria, going from there to Lawrenceville Academy. He studied in the office of his father's intimate friend, the late John P. Poe, and at Columbia University, Washington, and the University of Maryland. He was admitted to the bar in 1897, and shortly thereafter formed a partnership with the late Alonso L. Miles, which continued several years and until after Mr. Gorman had begun to follow his father's footsteps in politics.

Entered Politics in 1903.
His first public step in politics was taken in 1903. Before that he had been interested quietly in Howard county affairs and had been talked about for the house of delegates, but the general public knew little of that. In the summer of 1903, however, the year of the election of Edwin Ward to the governorship, Mr. Gorman appeared at the Howard county Democratic convention in Bellicott City as a candidate for the nomination for state senator. He had behind him a large body of the delegates, but he had not enough to win without fighting and working. So he fought and worked all day in a way that attracted general notice, and he won. He was elected easily in the following November, and then began a career that held the close attention of the state for eight years. At one time he promised to come close to matching that of the old Senator and that, in defeat or victory, exerted influence in Democratic affairs and in the legislature. When ill-health bore down insupportably, in 1911 lined up behind Mr. Gorman for the nomination for governor there was a powerful progressive sentiment which opposed him. Governor Crothers was a candidate for renomination, and Senator Lee was running. The governor withdrew and threw his support to Mr. Lee, the progressive. In the meantime, the late Congressman Talbot, who had been the intimate of the elder Gorman, but had broken with the son because the latter supported Senator Lee, left the other organization forces and went over to Senator Lee.

Losses After Hard Fight.
The combination of Crothers and Talbot behind Lee, with Lee stamped upon the State's mind as a progressive when progressivism was the order of the day, gave the organization forces behind Mr. Gorman the fight of their lives. It was the first contest for a nomination for governor under the direct primary system in this State, and the people were appealed to and courted by Garrett, to Worcester. When the polls closed, it was found that while Mr. Gorman had a considerable majority of the popular vote, he had only 65 votes to 64 for Senator Lee. In the convention, the county unit system of direct primaries being in use then as now.

So bitter was the Gorman-Lee fight that Mr. Gorman entered the general election fight, in which he was opposed by Phillips Lee Goldsborough, Republican, under heavy handicap. His handicap appeared as the campaign wore on, and he was defeated by a small plurality, despite a gallant fight.
